G. A. R. MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Rev. C. W. Watson Delivered the Address of the Day—Dr. T. S. Cartwright's Sermon to the Veterans at Trinity on Sunday Morning.

Another Memorial Day has come and gone with its revived memories of cruel war times and its sweet breath of summer flowers. Another time the survivors of the bloody battles have marched out in the early morning to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades. At the Memorial Plot in Hill Grove Cemetery, where the graves of the fallen soldiers are strewn with flowers, the survivors of the bloody battles have marched out in the early morning to decorate the graves of their fallen comrades.

The usual order of services were observed in Hill Grove Cemetery. William Kurtz Post No. 104, G. A. R., marched to Hill Grove Cemetery, escorted by Company D, Tenth Infantry, the Boys' Brigade, Uniform Rank Knights of the Maccabees and the Collins Band of Vanderhill. At the Memorial Plot the Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R., assisted in the memorial services. Mrs. P. O. Goodwin sang "The Union, Forever," and the soldiers joined in the chorus with a vigor. Mrs. Harry Crossland read an appropriate poem. The ritual of the G. A. R. was directed by Commander John O'Donnell, Adjutant T. M. Fee and Captain James J. Barnhart.

The address of the day was delivered by Rev. C. W. Watson, pastor of the Christian Church. It was a masterful effort, timely and practical, and was greatly appreciated by the assemblage.

After the procession had returned from the cemetery the Union Veterans Legion and the G. A. R. went to the Youghiogheny river, where flowers were scattered on the water in memory of the soldier and sailor dead who died at sea.

The Memorial services held in Trinity Church, Sunday morning, were very imposing. It was attended by the veterans and the Ladies' Circle of the G. A. R., by members of Company D, and the Boys' Brigade, and by a crowd of other people from Connellville and surrounding places. The church was crowded in every part, and hundreds who were unable to gain admittance gathered round the door, and in the school room. There were some very appropriate and beautiful decorations with flags and flowers, and never did old Trinity in all its long history appear to finer advantage. The musical parts of the service were rendered effectively by the vested choir of the church, numbering between 30 and 40 voices. J. R. Dickey, T. Wright, Miss Getchell and others rendered valuable aid. The processional hymn was "Onward, Christian Soldiers," sung as the choir marched round the church, proceeded by the cross. Amongst other hymns were, "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest," "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Our Father, God, to Thee," "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The latter was sung in the open air as the congregation left the church. As of fectory solo was sung by Mrs. Dickey and a concluding solo by Mr. Wright. Both were very effective, and the service throughout was grand and inspiring, and was much enjoyed.

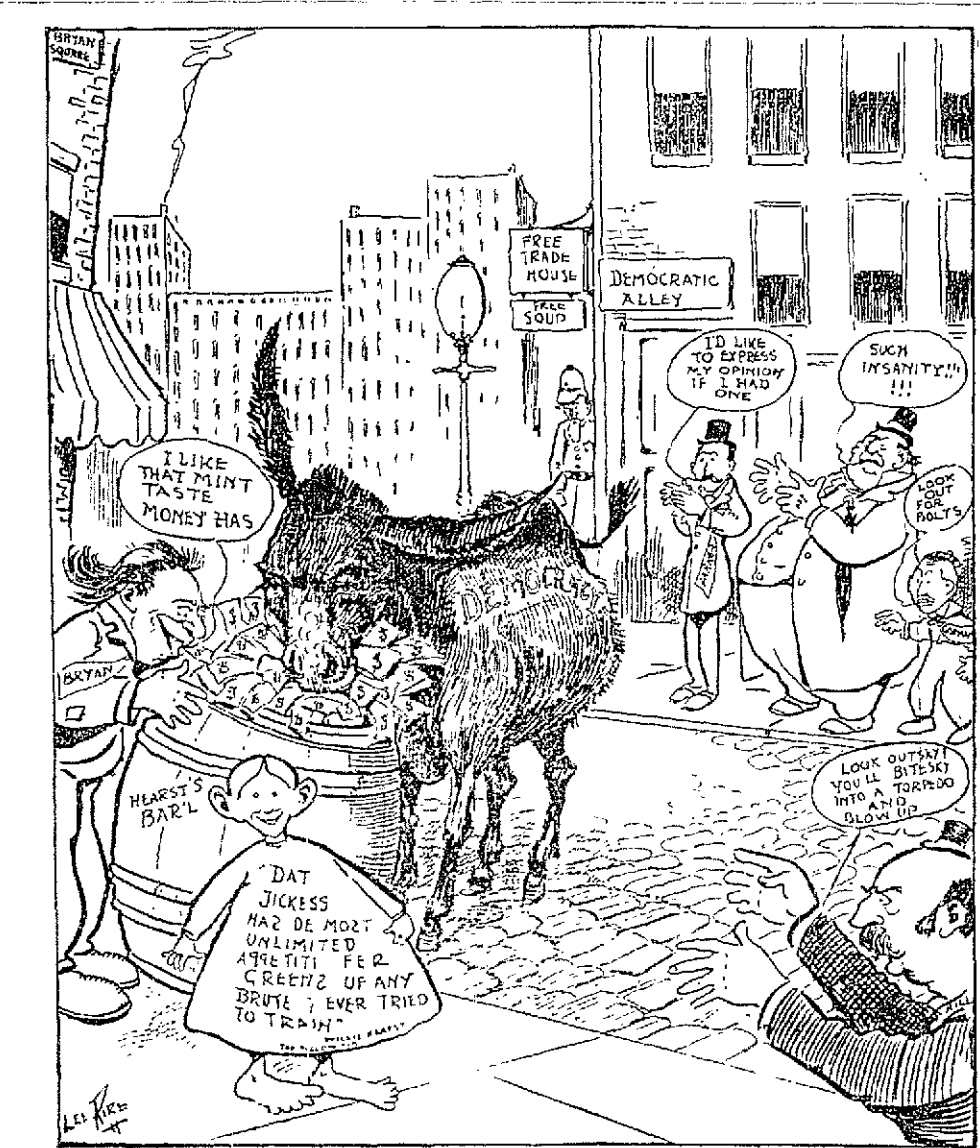

The pastor, Rev. Dr. T. S. Cartwright, delivered an appropriate and patriotic address. After a few words of welcome to the veterans and other visitors, he said: "There is something appropriate and pathetic in the observance of Memorial Sunday. It implies a tribute to departed worth. We come into contact with the spirits of comrades and friends who are now numbered with the saints in glory; and while the spirit of their noble lives and pay homage to their names we ourselves inhale an influence and receive a blessing which may elevate and adorn our own characters and lives. It is indeed to benefit the living rather than to eulogize the dead that this memorial service is held. The dead in Christ need not our praise. They are far beyond our human sphere. No flattering words, no beauteous flowers, no marble monuments can change the destiny or enhance the glory of those who fought for their country's honor, and died triumphant in the faith. But from the silent tomb there comes the breath of life. By those who rest in peace an example has been set of faith, of patriotism, of courage, which exalts the loftiest aspirations and incites to noblest deeds; and whether or not we realize the fact, the spirit of their noble lives do in some mysterious form encircle our paths and influence our pursuits.

This was the underlying thought of St. Paul in his exhortation to the Hebrews: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." Very striking words. The illustration is taken from the Grecian games. As the thousands of spectators who crowded the amphitheatre watched with breathless intent the contests waged in the arena below, so the saints and martyrs, the patriots and the prophets, of whom the apostle says, the world was not worthy, and those whose faith and suffering, whose heroism and triumph, he had so graphically portrayed, are represented as surrounding the Christian course, as looking down from their celestial heights upon the struggles of the world, and by their presence and example inciting to constancy of faith, and endurance in tribulation, in prospect of a great recompense of reward. It was a cold, majestic figure; it was a grand, inspiring scene, the force and beauty of which we can appreciate even now.

And the same figure is still appropriate, the same lesson is still useful. We need today as much as ever a magnanimous faith, a spiritual illumination, a heavenly guidance, a divine, intraculous interpretation. In illustration reference was made to the most folded forms of evil prevalent in the world. It is, said the pastor, a struggle with death. Our forefathers brave met the foe; and we, like them, must wrestle with blood, striving against sin. In their example of faith and patience of suffering and courage, of magnanimity and nobility, there is an incentive to our fortitude and faith, to our sacrifice and service. Through all conflicting scenes: in fire and blood, in prison and death, they endured as seeing Him who is invisible; and having ever come through the blood of the Lamb, they are now seated as kings and priests before the throne. On earth they bore the cross; in heaven they wear the crown, and there is inspiration, hope, victory, joy in the very thought that even now, as they look back in the effulgence of the Godhead, their spirits hold fellowship with ours, ministering to our wants and aiding in our strife, as we run the Christian race, or as we fight the battles of the Lord.

In this spirit, and in this principle the pastor said, he wished to apply the apostle to the patriots and heroes whose lives and characters we now memorialize, and to us their survivors and descendants who reap the advantage of their work, and upon whom devolves the responsibility of preserving the heritage for which they fought. A touching reference was then made to the rebellion and war, when such a patriotic response was made to the call to arms, when such privations and hardships were endured, and when such a brilliant and beneficent victory was achieved. In that war, said the preacher, there were men in all offices and ranks whose bravery and devotion will forever compare with the bravest heroes whose names and deeds adorn the historic page, and for whom monuments in bronze and marble have been built. Even military achievements must sometimes be judged in accordance with moral principles and laws, and in view of the influence they exert, and the results to which they lead. A war solely for aggrandizement and aggression was denounced as a hateful and devilish curse. But to fight for the institutions and homes, for the liberty and religion, for the safety and honor of our native land was a noble and patriotic act, which entitles the admittance of angels and the approbation of God. The love of country and home, next to the love of God, is a paramount sentiment; and he who in a crisis of national invasion and danger should refuse to resist the foe, even at the price of his own life, would be denounced as a traitor and a coward unworthy of the land in which he lived. Of no such pusillanimous and unworthy characters was the Grand Army of the Republic composed. They were valiant men and true who responded to the nation's call in the hour of need. But more than human bravery or bravery was needed to repel the atrepid foe; and whilst we have the men through whom the Union was preserved, the Government upheld, and a peace, blessed peace, restored, we must also devoutly recognize the sovereign will and power of Him who crowned the campaign with success, and who will so bountifully sustain our land.

And thus while recalling the past we learn in part a lesson for the future. That which has cost so much in money and blood must not be held in light esteem, or wantonly sacrificed for sordid gain, or sensual pleasure. It is a heritage of priceless treasure; and in unsullied purity and undiminished vigor we must hand down to posterity that for which our fathers so bravely toiled, and fought, and died. It will be a calamity to the nation should these national institutions, and these great intrinsic facts be disregarded or undervalued. We shall retain our acquaintance among the nations so long, and only so long, as we hold fast the principles of the faith, and adhere steadily to the traditions and customs of our fathers. The history of the world abounds in instances of nations, once great and prosperous, gradually sinking into ruin and decay through bad government and corrupt morals; and if ever the day should come when we renounce allegiance to God and our faith in the Bible, and our reverence for the Sabbath, and our regard for the strictest rules of purity, of integrity, of sobriety, of equity, in our own homes, in our business, in our Government, and in all the relations of life, then, depend upon it, our prestige will soon begin to wane, and as in the old Babylonian palace we shall see some mysterious hand writing our doom upon the wall of ruin. We have need, therefore, to be upon our guard. The prospect is not wholly unclouded. There are influences at work which strike at the foundation of our social and religious life, and which tend to destroy all that

We hold most dear, it is high time to try and get it out. The land is becoming demoralized. MEMORIAL DAY.

Nature wept with the widows and orphans and comrades of the patriots dead yesterday, but the discomforts of the wet weather only served to make the grass greener over their graves and to recall more vividly to the survivors the march, the camp and the bivouac.

Year by year the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are thinning out. The Old Guard will soon be no more. A lesser and a younger army have appeared in the meantime to take their places and keep their graves and memories green. The Spanish war veterans are the sons and grandsons of the boys of 1861. They did not fight as long or as hard as the latter, but they gave abundant evidence of their willingness to do so, and proved themselves worthy sons of loyal sires.

No regiment of the Spanish-American war saw hotter service or fought with greater valor and distinction than our own "Fighting Tenth." A monument in its honor is about to be dedicated in Pittsburgh. There still remains some money to be raised to pay the expenses connected therewith. Connellville has the distinction of furnishing one company of this regiment, and our people are justly proud of the record that company and that regiment make. They are being asked to make up their share of the deficit mentioned and we feel sure they will not be lacking in patriotic generosity.

The custom of decorating the soldiers' graves is not only a beautiful one, fraught with tender memories, but it also exalts patriotism, and the nation that is not alive to patriotism is in danger of becoming dead to the world.

Memorial Day not only honors brave men, but it likewise keeps the fires of patriotism burning brightly on the altar of the country's liberty. May honor never fall the one, nor the dead ashes of erasing cowardice ever dim the other.

MATTHEW STANLEY QUAY.

Matthew Stanley Quay has fought his last fight. It was a brave fight, but a losing one. The indomitable will that had time and again beaten back the assaults of disease was not sufficient to defend the shattered fortress from the persistent and repeated attacks of an insidious and undermining malady.

Senator Quay met death as he met all his enemies, with courage. He fought his unrelenting to the last ditch and faced the end with a stoicism worthy of the strain of fearless Indian blood that ran in his veins. He died in the harness, as it was freely predicted he would, and now that he has gone from the stage of action his really great achievements will stand forth undimmed by clouds of partisan prejudice.

Senator Quay will go down in history as the Napoleon of Pennsylvania politics. No man ever controlled his party organization with a firmer hand, and though he ruled with a rod of iron and sometimes smote his own people heavily, no leader had a more devoted following and none more thoroughly enjoyed the respect and confidence of the rank and file of his party.

Often accused of using the power of the organization to reward himself and his friends, his acts have been invariably for the best interests of the party. As a rule he did take care of his friends, and he also kept himself in office, but that is a part of the game of politics. He never sacrificed the party as part and parcel of the sinews of war; and it was Senator Quay's constant aim, just as it is the aim of every other political leader, to distribute them where they would do the most good for the party and the country. We use the last word advisedly and deliberately. The sagacious politician, the great leaders of political parties, apply the Jeffersonian rule, "is he honest; is he capable; is he faithful to the Constitution?" except that the word "Constitution," now as in the days of Jefferson, means the party organization; no party organization can afford to stand for incompetency or dishonesty.

There were many revolts against Senator Quay's rule, but almost without exception they reacted upon those who led them. The insurgents were invariably other politicians seeking Quay's shoes, under the specious guise of "reform." Quay was able to confound them by appeals to the masses, "the men in blouses," as he once put it.

The Republican party, not only of the State, but also of the Nation, has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Senator Quay. Who will take his place? Time alone will tell.

SUNDAY SODA WATER.

The awfully wicked and utterly depraved Sunday soda water sellers seem to have vision a march on the God-fearing and virtuous ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and their little blue books, wherein like modern Recording Angels, they have writ the sins of the unholly Sabbath-breakers.

But the Fruit & Soda Water Trust had better be alert. The wit of man is keen, but compared with the wit of woman it is dull indeed. Much as they love soda water, the fair sex have decreed that it shall not be sold on Sunday, and the vendors had better be on the alert, for "if a woman will, she will."

After all, soda water is said to be too fizzy for the good of the human stomach, and we all know that some fruits are either too green or too ripe to be healthy, particularly at this season of the year, when they are filled with the savage colle microbes. Let thirsty humanity defer to the wishes of the ladies and instead of drinking and devouring these dangerous things buy a keg of beer and some Humberger cheese and pretzels to sustain life over Sunday.

Senator Quay was not merely a politician. He was a soldier, and a brave one; a statesman, and a broad one.

Silly as it is, the shadow of Bryanism fights its timid capital on the eve of a Presidential election, and in consequence business legs, factories and mills are idle, railroads dismise employees and keep others on short time. It seems to be one of the penalties the country pays for its politics. Times will be better just as soon as we are assured of a continuance of the Republican policy in the administration of national affairs.

Connellville is becoming baseball mad. It takes three games a day to satisfy the rooting public now.

The porcine trust has been busted. It formerly had a monopoly of the rooting business, but the baseball fiends have hunted into the game.

The heathens of Morocco should be taught the respect that is due to the American flag, if our battleships have to shell every town on the coast. Oriental rulers have a fashion of forming partnerships with bandits and pretending their inability to apprehend and punish them. It is the duty of every government to maintain law and order in its dominions, and an injury to the persons or the goods of a citizen or subject of another country is an injury to that country, for which, under the law of nations, reparation is due; and that reparation may be summarily enforced or repudiated made.

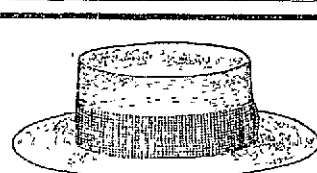

The soda water still sizes

"A government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth," nor shall this immortal sentence ever perish from the English language.

The Russian commanders are reported to be quarrelling among themselves. They may account for the many "regrets-to-report." Nicholas should remember that "a house divided against itself cannot stand."

The Duke of Devonshire wants to be paid for the use, and not for the value, of his name. This is rather unusual.

It was an open Sunday after all.

SURFEIT OF BASE BALL

Elks and Columbias Drew Big Crowds to Their Respective Parks.

FORMER WON THEIR GAME

Against the McKeesport Team in the Afternoon Dropping Morning Exhibition Contest—Columbias Won Two Good Games From Braddock.

There was plenty of base ball in Connellsville on Memorial Day. The Connellsville Elks followed up their victory over Uniontown Saturday afternoon by defeating the McKeesport nine in the regularly scheduled game at Marietta-Stillwagon park yesterday afternoon. The largest crowd that ever witnessed a game at the park turned out. One-third of the spectators were ladies. The grand stand was packed and the bleachers which have been moved out into left field were filled to their capacity. A rope stretched from the ticket office or entrance to the grand stand kept the big crowd back from the first base line and fringed all around right field were over 50 traps, carriages and buggies. The Columbias also had a big crowd at their afternoon game at Columbia park in New Haven. Manager Sam Ritchie and President W. C. Bishop of the Columbias cleared a handsome profit on their two games with Braddock, both of which they won, the morning game in 10 innings by a score of 5 to 5, and the afternoon game by a score of 13 to 10.

The Elks dropped their morning game to McKeesport by a score of 10 to 9. It was not a regularly scheduled game in the Elks League and does not count in the official standings. By winning yesterday afternoon's game the Connellsville Elks team is tied for first place with Allegheny. Monahan has a percentage of 1,000 also, but that nine has played but one game. Allegheny and Connellsville have each won two games.

On Saturday afternoon Uniontown got a surprise from the 503 Elks team when they were defeated by a score of 6 to 5. First baseman J. D. Porter immortalized himself in the last half of the ninth inning when he hit a Texas League over short that won the game. The score was a tie when Connellsville came to bat. Porter made a hit and was advanced to third by a sacrifice and an error. Then Porter came to the rescue with his timely hit and Uniontown was beaten. Walter Sneddon pitched a magnificent game and received faultless support from Whaley behind the bat. He had 15 strikeouts and allowed Uniontown but five hits. The latter had six errors chalked up against them. Uniontown scored four runs in the first inning. They did not cross the plate after that, though several times they were dangerous. Twice a double play retired runners at third. Percell and Swingle played fine games in left and middle, the former also batting timely.

In yesterday morning's game Harry Irwin and Wingenroth were the battery. Irwin pitched a pretty game and it was hard luck to lose it in the seventh inning after he looked so good. Though it was a surprise, McKeesport started off with a rush, scoring four runs. In the next inning they scored again. Connellsville got going in the fifth, scoring six runs, which gave them a lead of two runs, one run having been tallied in the third. In the seventh McKeesport forged ahead and held the lead to the finish.

The feature of the afternoon game was the batting of Francis. He had a batting average of 1,000. He got a base on balls, a single, a two bagger, a three bagger and a home run. The latter hit scored two runners ahead of him. Singer also worked in a three bagger to right field.

McDonough and Hankins of Uniontown umpired the game. McKeesport kicked persistently on Hankins' decisions, which may have been a little off color, but they were no worse for McKeesport than they were for Connellsville.

Both games at Columbia park were exciting. Carl Bishop and Louis Robbins won the morning game in the tenth inning. Each of them stepped up and cracked out two baggers, which clinched the game for the Columbias. Sterrett at third made a drowsy catch of a hard hit liner which was traveling for left field tabbed as a three bagger. Quinn of Dunbar pitched the morning game and he held the Braddock batters safe all the way.

The feature of the afternoon game was the batting of Gennas, Sterrett and Mason. Gennas batted in eight of the 13 runs. He cleared the bases twice with a three bagger and a two bagger. Mason lined out a home run that was one of the prettiest hits of the season at Columbia park. Sterrett had five hits. Koeper pitched the afternoon game and pulled himself out of several bad holes, backed up by his support. Before the game umpire Tony Bufano announced to the crowds that no disorder or public gambling would be permitted and his warning was heeded.

STORE NEWS.

Friday, June 3
Remnants.

On Friday we'll bring all the short lengths of Dress Goods and Silks to the bargain table in the cloak room and offer them to you at prices some a third and some a half less than the original prices. This remnant sale is an annual event with this store and of equal importance to both you and us. You'll find in the Dress Goods plenty of pieces in lengths suitable for odd skirts; in the Silks, lengths sufficient for waists and skirts. You'll find them displayed on a table in the cloak room, spread out easy for you to handle and examine. Only want to say this much more—that you owe it to your pocketbook to be present.

In the Carpet Room

Some odd lengths and some odd pieces here that may have enough in to fit your room or to fill a small hall or maybe just enough for an odd stair carpet.

If you'll bring your measurement with you we'll be glad to show you these and figure with you on how much we can save you on one of these pieces. Any time during the next ten days for these, but the sooner you come the more there will be for you to choose from. This has been a big carpet season for this store and we want to give you a chance at these before the season is over.

Hemstitched Bed Sets.

Made of best quality muslin, neatly hemstitched. Sheets, $1.90; Pillow Slips 45c—priced at $3.50 and $4.50. Neatly boxed for presents.

Corsets.

Your kind of a corset is here, for there's more kinds here than you'll find elsewhere—W. & B. Warner's, Kabo, Thompson's, Nemo and Royal Worcester and a full line of different styles in each of these makes—and there are no better.

Stockings

For Ladies, Misses and Children. Selling more Stockings this season than ever before—and that means selling a good many—selling so many because quality and prices are right. Any store can sell you a 25c Stocking, but there's no store in this vicinity that can give you as much stocking goodness for that same 25c as this store. Mean every word of this and can prove it to you if you'll give us the opportunity.

White Shirt Waist Suits.

Some new ones here to show you this week, priced at $4, $5 and $6. Neatly made and neatly trimmed and these prices mean a saving to you if you're thinking of buying the goods and having a suit made—save you lots of bother besides. More of those $1.75 Suits to show you this week. If you have not seen these yet you ought to.

Parasols.

Parasol weather now, and we've a showing of these now that we'll be glad to have you see. Priced from $2 up to $6, with biggest showing around $3.

GOOD COUNTY ROADS.

Those of German Township Rapidly Being Put in Model Shape.

TROUBLES SUPERVISORS HAVE.

Coke Companies Are Always Prompt in Coming Forward With Their Share of Work and the Cost Part of Their Tax.

Thomas Smith, one of the supervisors of German township, was a business collector at the court house Saturday afternoon. He says the roads of the township are now in as good a condition as could be expected at this season of the year. The tax levy was fixed at three mills, but it is thought that this will be amply sufficient, as it will mean at least $15,000 under the present assessment, which is considerably higher than heretofore. Around the public works some of the roads have been asked and these will need but little attention for some time to come. On account of the numerous works in the township it is thought that a very few years more will see the leading highways will be asked and that the best roads in the county will be found in this township.

Mr. Smith, as well as the other supervisors, has much trouble in getting people to work out their tax and last year was obliged to pay $1.00 a day, which is 10 cents more than is usually allowed. Although the law provides that a certain per cent. of the tax must be worked out, the people are prone to offer all sorts of excuses and put off this duty as long as possible. No difficulty is experienced with the coke companies. The supervisors claim that all they have to do is to notify the companies that they want so many men to put on the roads and they are furnished. The cost part of the tax is forthcoming whenever demand is made for it and this is used in buying material for bridges, repairs of all kinds or for other purposes for which it may be needed. It is said that some of the farmers of the township who have grown rich through the sale of their coal complain about being obliged to help fix the roads, giving as a reason that the coke companies use them most and therefore should see that they are kept in repair.

The mileage for road purposes in German township is far below the average. In Bullisick, Sallick and some of the other mountain townships the rate has been fixed at 10 mills and even then some of the roads are in almost impassable condition the year around. The different rates throughout the county, the commissioners claim, has been the source of much complaint on the part of coal and coke companies and other corporations owning property in various districts. They think the rate should be made uniform. As a general thing they also favor selling the roads out in sections as in Dunbar and some of the other townships. It is claimed that in this way better results are obtained for the same outlay of money.

The school levy of German township for the coming year is likely to be fixed at six mills. This is pretty high and is made necessary on account of the many new school buildings necessary to accommodate the children since the coal development there a few years ago. Several more new rooms are likely to be erected this year.

GIVEN FULL POWER.

County Chairman P. E. Sheppard's Talk to Republican Meeting.

Uniontown, May 30.—(Special.)—At the Republican committee meeting Saturday afternoon Chairman-elect P. E. Sheppard was given full power to select his own secretaries as well as to appoint committeemen to fill any vacancies that may occur. In his address to the committee Mr. Sheppard urged them all to work in harmony and in the interest of the party, which he said had put at least eight-tenths of all the good laws on the statute books. He urged them to settle aside any little grievances which they might have and work together for the success of the Republican ticket, which he predicted would be elected by an overwhelmingly large majority. The committeemen were also urged to see that all the party voters are registered in due time, that they have their taxes paid and then see that they get to the polls on election day. As the Japanese are fighting for a love of country, so should the Republican committeemen fight for a love of party. Mr. Sheppard grew quite eloquent and was only interrupted once and that was when his Democratic friend, Attorney J. M. Oglesby, looked into the room long enough to say in his characteristic tone, "Ah, yes." This created quite a laugh for a time.

A deed of voluntary assignment, made by E. C. Shaler of Duquesne, to the Franklin Savings & Trust Company of Pittsburgh was sent to Uniontown for record Saturday. All property is to be sold as soon as possible and the proceeds divided pro rata among the creditors. The property includes several lots in Hammondville, Bullisick township, which Shaler bought when the place was laid out several years ago.

J. W. McLaughlin of Uniontown and Miss Victoria Brown of Wynn works, late of Connellville, letters of administration were granted Saturday afternoon to D. Johnson Hoover and Ephraim B. Hoover. KNOX MAY SPEAK.

Formally Asked to Make Speech at Old Fort Necessity.

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Representative Cooper and John Rittenour, editor of the Uniontown Gazette of Uniontown, Pa., were here today to invite Attorney General Knox to attend the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Fort Necessity, on July 4. On that date 150 years ago George Washington was obliged to abandon the fort to the French and Indians and begin his retreat to Cumberland. The citizens of Uniontown intend to hold a celebration and Fort Necessity Lodge of Odd Fellows took the initiative. It was desired to have Attorney General Knox attend particularly since he became prominent as the head of the department of justice.

Mr. Knox told Mr. Cooper and Mr. Rittenour that he would accept the invitation and would be pleased to attend and make an address, providing there was nothing to prevent. He felt sure that he would be able to come. Governor Pennypacker and Attorney General Carson of Pennsylvania are expected to be present and the celebration will likely be attended by other men of prominence. The speeches will be delivered on the site of the old fort, which is about 10 miles from Uniontown. Mr. Rittenour returned home this evening. Mr. Knox has declined fully 30 invitations to make addresses this summer, but owing to the character of this affair and the fact that it is being held by his old neighbors, he feels that he should make an exception.

CAPT. TUCKER HUNT.

Popular Conductor Has Spent Life of Activity on the B. & O.

Captain Daniel Hunt, familiarly known among his hundreds of friends as "Tucker," has returned to duty as conductor on the Western express after a vacation of several weeks. In this connection it might be interesting to note that Captain Hunt has been in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for 38 years a great part of this time as conductor. During the last 24 years he has been in the passenger service. He is unusually popular among patrons and fellow employees alike and all unite in wishing him many more active years in the service of the company.

During Mr. Hunt's connection with the B. & O. he has witnessed some remarkable changes in the system and development of rich territory made possible by the opening of railroads. Especially is this true of West Virginia and Southern Fayette county.

Time was not many years ago when this genial conductor ran no further south than Uniontown because the State line's terminal was at that point. Now he runs to Weston, 100 miles south of Uniontown, in the very heart of West Virginia.

Fayette City Woman's Claim in Candy Company's Suit.

Miss Anna Metrick of Fayette City has filed a defense in the suit brought against her some weeks ago by the Yoder Candy Company of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Metrick claims that on April 10, 1904, she paid the company everything she owed them and took a receipt in full and that since then she has not been dealing with the firm. She has also made answer to a suit brought by the B. H. Voskamp Company of Pittsburgh to collect a balance alleged to be due for groceries sold. In this instance Mrs. Metrick says that on October 1, 1903, she paid the plaintiff $50, while on January 7, 1903, she paid $68.90. In neither of these instances, she says, has credit been given.
